For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake. (2 Cor 4:5) I want to thank the organizers of this Faculty Conference for inviting us to join in this time of remembering and reflecting on Christian-Muslim work begun at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago in 1984-85. Thinking back to those humble beginnings the names of quite a few colleagues come to mind without whose support little would have been accomplished. Several have passed away, others couldn't be here, but some are present, and for that I am deeply grateful. My good friends and colleagues Dr. Ghulam Haider Aasi and Dr. Mark Thomsen are with us, and I've asked them to share in these reflections. (1)
